Detailed below is an overview of the Liability Programme which provides basic information regarding the type of cover provided. For full policy information please refer to the policy documents available on the NZOHNA website www.nzohna.org.nz.

Professional Indemnity

Professional Indemnity Insurance provides protection for businesses and professional persons in respect of legal liability arising from the conduct of their practice or business.

Specifically coverage is provided for:

- Settlements by or judgements against the business or professional person arising out of negligent advice or services.
- Legal costs and expenses associated with the defence of legal action

Public Liability

Public Liability Insurance provides protection for businesses and individuals against claims for compensation in respect of unexpected or unintended personal injury or property damage for which they become legally liable, arising out of their business activities.

The policy also extends to cover the costs of defending these claims in court, as well as any necessary investigations or negotiations.

Statutory Liability

Statutory Liability Insurance provides protection to businesses for;

- Defence Costs associated with alleged unintentional breaches of the Health & Safety in Employment Act, the Building Act, Consumer Guarantees Act, Fair Trading Act, Privacy Act and most other statutes affecting commercial activity.
- The costs of representation at an investigation or inquiry.
- Any fine or cash penalty payable by the insured following conviction for an offence under the insured statutes.

However with effect from 5 May 2003 it was legislated that the fine incurred following an alleged breach of the Health & Safety in Employment Act is no longer insurable and can therefore not be covered by this policy.
